

Mobile Madness...

I have just had to deal with this noise, coming from this toy, for the past 10 minutes.

If you can manage to watch the entire 30 second clip without wanting to punch the screen, you've done better than I did.

The batteries have now been removed and said toy has been gently placed (by that i mean, thrown with force and prior to that, stamped on by me) into the outdoor bin.

(Also, just to note, this toy had no off button – why do manufacturers do that to parents?! EVERYTHING should come with an off button. Including children...)
